CUTTING THE PIANO ROLL—Lawrence (Piano Roll) Cook, of New York, thinks rinky-tink music pumped out on a player piano is due for popularity again. Cook, who may be the last man in the U. S. still cutting "nickelodeon" music, punches out some tunes on his perforator. Merry-Go-Round---Senator Byrd Puts Squeeze on Ike

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON - Senator Byrd of Virginia, upporter of General Eisenhower for election but vigorous opponent of President Eisenhower egarding debt increase, sat upstairs in the White House one day last week twiddling his fingers. Downstairs at the breakfast table, the man he had helped put in the White House was arguing with congressmen. Ike and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey were using their most persuasive charm on key congressmen in order to rush a $15,000,000,000 debt - limit increase through Congress.

Finally the President rose, explained that Senator Byrd was waiting upstairs, and joined the senator from Virginia. They talked for one hour

To fellow senators afterward, Byrd summarized that long conversation as follows: "I told him: 'Mr. President, I'm going to put the squeeze on you. I'm going to see if you mean what you say. You talked a lot about balancing the budget and getting us on a sound, businesslike basis. But every time things get

Now if we give you this 15 billion debt increase, I know what will happen,' Senator Byrd continued. 'It will be spent. But if we don't give it to you, you'll be under pressure to put things on a businesslike basis. So we're going to pres-

Byrd also told the President that it wasn't the Democrats, but the Republicans who were blocking the debt rise.

"For example, Senator Malone of Nevada said he wouldn't vote for it," Byrd told Ike.

Eisenhower remained stony-faced and glum.

Senators Got Sore Chief reason for senatorial ire over the debt increase request was its timing.

Another thing irking senators is the way the Treasury has increased the interest rates on government bonds. This will counterbalance part of the current economizing. Though the budget is being reduced, the Treasury has boosted interest rates to the point where it will eventually cost the taxpayers about $3,000,000,000 more

The Treasury official in charge of increasing interest rates is Randolph Burgess, formerly of the National City Bank of New York. And the groups which chiefly profit from higher interest rates on government bonds are the big banks, including National City.

Again, what makes senators sore is that Burgess, who upped the interest rates, was never confirmed by the Senate. Not wanting to relinquish his pension and holdings in National City Bank, he took an advisory position with the Treasury. However, his power over U.S debt policy is just the same whether confirmed by the Senate or not.

Democrats Now Charge GOP With 'Give Away' Policies

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON-With Congress headed homeward, a first-round progress report is in order on the political charge that, under Republican control this would be a "give-away" admini-

It involves a curious twist in the use of eatch phrases. For the previous 20 years, Republicans have been accusing Democrats of giving away everything, including the keys to the Treasury No sooner had the Republicans come into power than the charge was reversed. Only the meaning was changed to imply that the GOP would take public property and turn it over to private ownership.

Actually, both charges are political exaggera-

The foreign aid give-away programs started by the Democratic administrations have been materially cut down by Congress this year. Former President Truman recommended $7.9 billion foreign aid for the present fiscal year. President Eisenhower cut this down to $5.1 billion. Against his recommendation, Congress cut this still further to $4.5 billion. Then Congress intimated the whole enterprise must be ended within two years.

Ike Asked for $200,000,000

President Eisenhower immediately asked Congress for another $200 million for Korean rehabilitation, however And the President's request for authority to give away $100 million worth of surplus farm products for foreign relief was granted. What this amounts to, of course, is an indirect subsidy give-away to American agriculture, which will benefit through higher prices.

Needed: One Psychoanalyst

Pancho Seguro, a dark-skinned, bandy-legged Ecuadorian who has one of the most puzzling games in professional tennis, has played in exhibitions and tournaments around the globe and never has encountered any vestige of prejudice. He was educated in Florida and his days there

Now, suddenly, he has been denied a visa by the government of South Africa, presumably because of his Indian antecedents.

Clearly the South African government is bent upon elevating racial prejudice into its supreme way of life. It seems determined to fight its way the rest of the world is making on this score.

We note that the city council of Johannesburg. South Africa, recently decided to send $5,600 to a scientist to have the elephant in the city zoo psechoanalyzed. The elephant can't stand

There Are No Good Reasons A Person Should Smoke At All

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

There is vigorous debate on whether smoking is harmful and in what way, but no one claims that it strengthens the muscles, improves the "wind" or does anything else to improve the Nicotine has generally been considered the principal ingredient of tobacco smoke which may exert an unfavorable effect. Tars or other elements in tobacco may also be undesirable. As a pure drug, nicotine is a powerful poison.

When burned as it is in smoking, the harmful effect of the nicotine is certainly lessened. Furthermore, of the nicotine which enters the smoker's mouth, only a small amount is absorbed through the linings of the mouth, throat and lungs into the blood.

The amount of nicotine in the smoke is increased by rapid smoking. The nicotine which is absorbed is eliminated quickly through the Tobacco smoke irritates the delicate mucou linings of the breathing passages. Coated tongue in heavy smokers is the rule. The throat and larvnx, or voice box, are irritated by heav, smoking and smokers frequently have a slight cough and hoarseness.

There is some evidence that cigaret smokers show an increased likelihood of developing lung cancer and I know of several doctors who have given up smoking for this reason

Smoking interferes with appetite. The per son who stops heavy smoking suddenly tends to gain weight merely because he eats more. People with ulcers of the stomach are often advised not to smoke. Smoking increases the acid secretions of the stomach and tends to slow the healing of an ulcer, some people believe.

Many smokers complain of cold hands and feet. This is probably because the nicotine abto contract and, therefore, to carry less warming blood to these regions. In some people the tight ening of the blood vessels is so great after smoking that a temporary increase in blood

There is little doubt that excessive smoking in terferes with athletic performance. Shortness of breath on exertion after smoking is usual. Athletes in training are not supposed to smoke during the period of their competition

Does smoking shorten life? This is highly debatable. One study of this subject came to the conclusion that in men, at least, smokers after the age of 40 have a lower average expectation

Interpreting The News

INTERPRETING THE NEWS By J. M. ROBERTS JR.

Associated Press News Analyst Western authorities are expressing their usual skepticism about the relationship of the figures in the new Soviet budget to her actual military program. In addition to the normal covering up of military spending, there is suspicion that Moscow may have adopted a sly propaganda trick this year in an effort to make it appear she is only trying to match Western military efforts, instead of the other

This suspicion was created by the fact that the budget was announced several months later than usual, and after the U.S. Congress had made its appropriations. The purported Russian reduction is about on the same order as that of the United States. American experts believed this was offset by a miscellaneous item in the Russian budget which was practically doubled as compared with last year. It has been known for years, too, that Russia spreads her funds for military purposes, other than direct charges for the armed forces, over several other categories. Military research, including that on atomic energy, is listed under education. The capital construction item, which is also up this year, includes war plants. Nobody knows what other war preparedness may be covered under other listings in such general terms as

"cultural services" and "investment." Early studies of the budget indicated it was about the same

One noble thing was a new sign that Russian officials are showing greater respect for public opinion than was ever displayed under Stalin. Recent price cuts throughout the Soviet Union were described by Eddy Gilmore, veteran Associated Press Moscow correspondent who has just returned home, as real, as opposed to mere manipulations in the past. That means, for one thing, that farmers receive less for their production. So the budget allows them certain reductions in axes to balance things up. The government also proposes to extract less money from on a "subscribe or else" basis. One of the most interesting things about the budget is the attempt of the planners to levy farm taxes in various regions according to ability to pay. There are vast differences in rates between districts which have high production of valuable crops like cotton and those which produce less profitably.

The tax, levied on a flat acreage basis, varies in the Ukraine alone from 2 to 12 rubles per hectare in different districts. A ruble will buy slightly more than an ounce of butter in Russia. The overwhelming proportion of Russian revenue comes, of course, from the turnover tax, which is very much the same as what Americans call a sales tax, with some kinship to the British stamp taxes which so enraged colonial Americans, and from government business operations. There are also income taxes.
